

Culture awaits you: simple acts to live it with respect

Before your visit

Take a look before you go!

You'll find all you need on the website: opening hours, prices, current exhibits, and other useful services. One moment of research. Zero surprises!

Have a four-legged friend? Ask before your visit.

For peace of mind, check first if pets are welcome. That way, you'll be sure everyone can enjoy the experience!

Travel green!

Whenever you can, use public transport, ride a bike, or take a nice walk. It's a small gesture for the environment, and you might even discover something new along the way!

Accessibility? Of course!

Take a look at all our services for special needs. We want everyone to feel welcome and perfectly at ease.

During your visit

Art awaits, but don't forget to stop by the ticket office!

Before entering, make sure you have a ticket. If not, stop by the ticket office, and we'll get you on your way!

Take your time. Never rush

No running down the corridors! Take it slow, and watch out for steps and stairs.

Food doesn't pair well with art

Eating, drinking and smoking are to be done elsewhere. Inside, the only thing on the menu is culture!

Leave everything as you found it

Respect the environment. Leave no trace. Like art, the museum is to be cared for. Keep it clean and intact for all who come after you.

A little silence is good for art

Speak softly, put your phone on silent, and enjoy the space. That way, all the art and beauty can be enjoyed free from distraction.

Small children are welcome, if supervised

Your littlest explorers must always be accompanied by an adult. No solo adventures!

Look, but don't touch!

In Italy, picking up historical objects, stones, or other archaeological finds is forbidden. You're here to enjoy the spectacle, not be a collector!

Look, don't touch (except where allowed!)

Art is delicate, to be admired with the eyes, not the hands. The interactive stations, on the other hand, are there to be explored!

Photos yes. Flash no!

Capture the moment, but without the flash! Art loves natural light. The sun was the original master of illumination, after all!

Respect the path (and the staff!)

Stay on the marked routes, and listen to the staff on hand. They're there to make your visit memorable (and safe!).

Pause for some artful reflection

Find a bench to sit on? Great! If you'd like to sit and take in the art calmly and with curious eyes, please do! Breathe, gaze, and be inspired. Art loves all who look and reflect!
